School cuts to avoid layoffs

More than $1.4 million being trimmed from budget

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

More than $1.4 million will be trimmed from the Granite City School District budget for the 1992-93 year.

The School Board on Tuesday night approved the cost reduction plan, which is expected to achieve more than $500,000 of the total savings through attrition and the hiring of new teachers to replace retiring teachers, Superintendent Gib Walmsley said.

With retirements, the district will not replace four elementary teachers, four secondary (junior high and high school) teachers, two cafeteria employees and two custodians.

Additional cost savings will include a $54,000 reduction in the number of students attending behavioral-disorder classes on a tuition basis, $75,000 in insurance savings, a $75,000 reduction in student transportation costs, and $30,000 less homebound instruction.

High-school study halls will be eliminated except for the first- and seventh-hour classes.

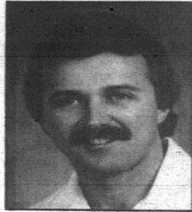

Fourteen teachers will be retiring at the end of the 1991-92 school year this spring. An additional 19 have filed for retirement at the end of the 1992-93 school year.

Twenty retirements are expected at the end of the 1993-94 school year. The district employs 433 teachers.

Administrative staff cuts totaling more than $140,000 were listed in the cost-cutting plan, including savings from re-directing grant money to administrative salaries. Grant funds also will be utilized for some teaching and secretarial salaries.

More than $59,000 was obtained by a decision to increase instructional fees from the present $20 a year to $30 a year, student parking fees from $10 to $25 and drivers' training fees from $20 to $30.

Cost reductions are necessary mostly due to the economic strains put on the budget by state budgetary changes, Walmsley said.

Keene

"Our district is committed to not going into unmanageable debt," he said.

"Thirty-seven percent of our budget is funded by the state when it should be as high as 50 percent. Transportation is funded 51 percent by the state when it should be 85 percent."

"We are expecting to lose $100,000 in state aid in the upcoming year, and have heard rumors of further cuts by summer."

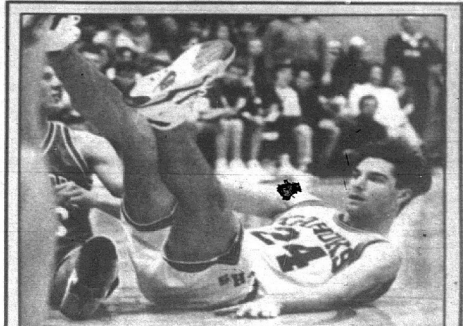

Real estate taxes may generate an additional 3 percent in revenue due to assessment growth.

The cost reductions will replace the need for employee layoffs or tax increases, board officials said.

"If tax dollars are not increasing, then costs have to be reduced to keep up with increased costs associated with employees," School Board President Dr. Mark Eavenson said. "We have been able to make the cuts without expecting any layoffs."

Walmsley said, "We hope we have planned for more reductions than necessary, to restore about $200,000 back to the budget."

It is anticipated that $125,000 may be expended to add teachers after the sixth day of fall 1992 attendance, if the enrollment exceeds expectations.

Warriors ousted by Kahoks, 66-49

If you're going to lose, it might as well be to the best.

When all was said and done Wednesday, Richard Keene was the difference. The #5 Collinsville High School senior scored 28 points and added six rebounds, seven assists, seven steals and one blocked shot as the Kahoks ended the Warriors basketball season with a 66-49 win. The win sends Collinsville

The loss ended an eight-game winning streak for the Warriors (20-8). It also ended the season and a bit of an era. It was the final high school game for 6-9 twin brothers Jeff and Brian Smith. Jeff bowed out with 17 points and Brian had 10.

Girl, 15, charged in killing

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A 15-year-old Mitchell girl was charged Wednesday as an adult in last month's shooting death of her mother's boyfriend.

Holly Ann Dymas was charged with first-degree murder in a warrant issued Wednesday afternoon.

Dymas, her mother and the victim, Thomas L. Hogue, 44, had all lived together in a home in the 800 block of Fleming Place, Mitchell.

According to a statement issued by the Madison County Sheriff's Department, Dymas implicated herself in a statement given to sheriff's detectives Tuesday.

Hogue was found dead in his residence at about 9:10 p.m. Feb. 13. An autopsy performed the next day concluded that Hogue died from a gunshot wound to the head.

At that time, a spokesman for the sheriff's department said the wound appeared to be self-inflicted.

According to the warrant issued against Dymas, the murder weapon was a .45-caliber semi-automatic handgun.

Det. Scott Sandridge of the Madison County Sheriff's Department declined to comment on the case.

Detectives presented the results of their investigation to the Madison County State's Attorney's Office on Wednesday morning.

Dymas is being held without bond in the Madison County Juvenile Detention Center.

The girl's mother, Pam Dymas, apparently was not home at the time of the shooting.

Trees, some crops are hit hard by cold

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

The freeze Monday night and Tuesday brought plants, trees and crops, which were prospering in early spring-like temperatures, back to the reality of winter.

Any tree, plant or crop that was in active growth either naturally or due to the warm temperatures was adversely affected by the freeze, said Steven Hollinger, assistant professor of agronomy at the University of Illinois.

Temperatures in the low 20s will adversely affect trees that have started to bloom, such as plum, pear, crabapple and Bradford pear trees, added Bill Schermer of Schermer's Garden Shop.

"Anything on a flowering tree is in trouble," Schermer said.

Some of the early blooms, such as very early tulips and daffodils and some roses that have started to put leaves on, will have their new growth burned by the cold snap, which prevailed all day Tuesday and continued Tuesday night, Schermer said.

Magnolia trees, colorfully blossoming several days ago, will lose their blooms, Schermer said.

Plants could have a chance for rebirth if people trim the brown areas that developed this week, he said. (See TREES, Page 10A)

The return of wintry weather Tuesday caused area spring flowers like these daffodils at Wilson Park to meet an untimely end.

Family upset with charges in accident

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

Family members say William Knapp's recovery from a car accident last May, while miraculous, is not complete enough to merit the reckless homicide charges he now faces.

"If by a miracle you mean that he's alive, yes, that is a miracle," said Melissa Valencia, a cousin.

"There's no doubt he's progressed a lot. But he still can't make sense of most things."

"His life consists of sitting and watching videos. What good would it do to put someone like that in jail?"

Knapp, 34, was charged with two counts of reckless homicide last week in connection with a traffic accident that killed Frank E. Bury, 34, of Madison and Ronald J. Hahn, 25, of Granite City.

According to Granite City Police, Bury and Hahn were passengers in a car driven by Knapp that ran into a moving train on Missouri Avenue near the A.O. Smith plant. Knapp was seriously injured in the accident. According to police, a coroner reports, all three men were intoxicated at the time of the accident.

District cites safety concerns

By Randy Vaughn
Staff writer

The Granite City School District is asking the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency to concern itself with the protection of students at Prather Elementary.

The Board of Education on Friday sent a letter to the EPA on the proposed Etica-Granite Inc. $10 million, 21-acre hazardous-waste treatment facility.

"We have become aware of the proposed construction of a waste treatment plant approximately 3,000 feet from one of our schools, Prather Elementary," the letter noted. "The fact sheet prepared by the EPA indicates that hazardous material may be received, processed and disposed of at the facility."

The letter reported the board's concern that, if hazardous material is to be processed at the facility, all consideration should be given to the safety of the approximate 900 children who attend Prather.

911 system OK'd, could start April 1

SPRINGFIELD — Madison County's 911 emergency telephone system has passed the right number with the Illinois Commerce Commission.

The ICC Tuesday voted to approve the system subject to it meeting minimum accuracy requirements for the data base of addresses and phone numbers.

The ICC action allows the system to start operation by March 31 if the county and Illinois Bell Co. show the data base is at least 99 percent accurate.

Madison County 911 coordinator Dave Whipple said the 1 percent permissible error rate represented fewer than 1,000 phone lines in Madison County, and he said he is confident the accuracy requirement would be met by the projected April 1 start date.

Emergency fire, police and ambulance calls will be dispatched through 15 answering points throughout the county.

John Greenan, the ICC coordinator for 911 systems, said his agency reviews new systems to make sure they meet legally required technical and operational standards.

Data base accuracy reports must be made by (See 911, Page 2A)

Port district predicts profitable trade links

The expected significant growth of barge trade as the North American economy integrates could propel economic growth in southwestern Illinois, Tri-City Regional Port officials believe.

Transportation and trade meetings in Mexico Feb. 17-24 were attended by a Tri-City Port District delegation and Mexican transportation service providers including Fondepote and Puertos Mexicanos representatives.

Discussions focused on water transportation versus land transportation cost comparisons, route and timing discussions, and related business opportunities.

On Feb. 20, Hector Lopez Gutierrez of Puertos Mexicanos proposed to the Tri-City Port that both enter into a formal agreement of cooperation.

Haine fighting fees on cities' lawsuits

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine is challenging a legislative change that would have local governments paying fees to file lawsuits.

"It's taking money from one group of taxpayers and giving it to another group of taxpayers," Haine said.

"It's nonsense." The Illinois General Assembly deleted a passage from a court filing fees statute that exempted "state or local government (or school districts)" from paying the filing fees.

The law, with the deletion, went into effect Jan. 2, the same day as General Assembly legislation that tripled most court filing fees. Fees now range from $58 to $180.

Haine said that most city or township governments file lawsuits to seek demolition of a derelict building or to enforce other city ordinance violations.

But in both the previous and current legislation, law enforcement agencies, which seek criminal warrants from the court, remain exempt.

Haine said he has asked Madison County Circuit Clerk Willard

"Butch" Portell not to assess the charges for local governments at least until Haine receives a legal opinion from Illinois Attorney General Roland Burris.

"It's (the delay in charging the local governments) given the cities and villages a window of opportunity to get this exemption back in," Haine said.

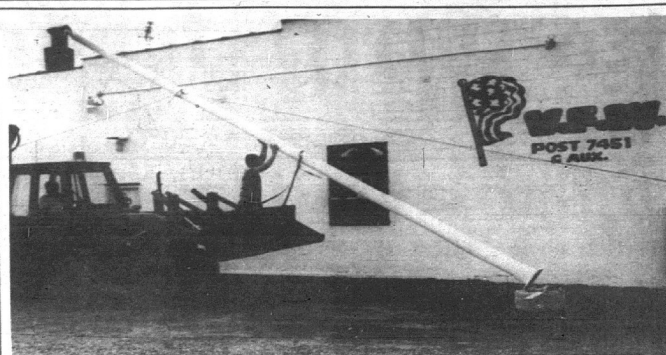

"I'd advise city attorneys to work to see that that happens. Cities and villages have never paid these fees before and they've not budgeted for it."

Haine said he will also encourage state and local bar associations to ask the General Assembly to reduce new fees for middle-income residents.

"I'm unhappy with the fee increases across the board," Haine said. "They're way, too high for the average person."

Haine said many of the court procedures, such as adoptions and legal name changes, do not require much judicial action, not to mention that court services are already paid for by citizens through property, sales and income taxes, Haine said.

"And then to argue that we have to pay a user fee on top of that ... it undermines the court system," Haine said.

40 pounds of marijuana confiscated

Troy police recorded what they called the town's largest confiscation of drugs in history last week when Jimmy Brian Hartline, 28, of the 500 block of Mockingbird was charged with possession of about 40 pounds of marijuana with the intent to distribute.

Hartline, a former Granite City resident, was free on bond Friday afternoon.

Troy police said they received a report Monday that Hartline's apartment door was standing open. When an officer went to secure the residence, he noticed drugs lying about the apartment.

Police Chief Robert Noonan said. Hartline was arrested the next morning, Noonan said. The total 40 pounds of marijuana has a street value of $80,000, he said.

Police suspect that Hartline was being used as a pivot point between other dealers and distributors.

Detectives from MEGSI (Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois) have been called in to assist Troy police.

Hartline is originally from Granite City and had been leasing the apartment for about a year, Noonan said.

Along with the drugs, Troy police confiscated a 1985 Buick and a 1988 Chevrolet truck, both belonging to Hartline.

Noonan said Hartline was first arrested Tuesday and charged with two counts of possession with the intent to distribute. At that time he was also charged with one count of unlawful use of a weapon after a search Monday turned up a sawed-off shotgun, along with approximately 20 pounds of marijuana. A second search of his apartment later revealed another 20 pounds of marijuana, said Noonan.

Kid's Radio station forms fund-raising arm

Kid's Radio — station WKJO-FM (95.5) — which went off the air two weeks ago because of financial troubles, may be getting a second life.

The station's general manager, Bob Cox, announced Wednesday from the station's offices in Clayton that the not-for-profit organization, the Sandbox Corp., has been formed to purchase the station. A board of directors of civic and business leaders and private citizens will be formed to oversee operations of the station, he said.

"We hope to return to the air as quickly as possible," Cox said. "I don't think we'll have anything to worry about once this gets started."

The not-for-profit status is expected to greatly increase corporate donations to the popular children's station because the money would be tax deductible, an official said.

"People have been reluctant to give big dollar amounts because they're not tax deductible," said Susan Hunkins, director of public relations for the station. "Hopefully, this will change things quite a bit."

However, a major obstacle remains to be hurdled. The station has to raise $650,000 before it returns to the airway. As of Wednesday, $15,000 has been raised.

The $650,000 will be given to Sandbox Corp. to purchase the station.

Daniel J. Sullivan, a local professional fund-raiser, has agreed to donate his time in generating the needed money.

"We need some serious money, some serious commitments," Sullivan said. "What we need right now is for two major corporate sponsors to step forward and set the pace. Usually, that's what it takes, a couple of people to start it and then everyone else joins in."

Cox said the station currently is courting several major corporations in the St. Louis area for donations.

After announcing its decision to go off the air, the station was deluged with phone calls from saddened parents and their children, Cox said.

"We had no idea it would get into this," he said. "I figured we'd get a few calls the day after, and that would be it. But we have just been swamped with calls and letters."

For information, call the station at 862-9550.

GOP leaders admit: Voters unhappy with incumbents

Some of this area's leading Republicans predict President George Bush will be largely forgotten by the fall election.

At the Lincoln Day dinner during the weekend, GOP stalwarts professed little concern that the Bush-Buchanan battle would hurt other Republican candidates.

Madison County Board member Herschel Beane said longtime Republican backers are "concerned (about the national infighting), but it doesn't seem to bother them about the local candidates."

"They feel they're Republicans, but that even if they have a little problem with Bush, they don't have any problem with the local people," Beane said.

Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus, who is seeking the 20th District congressional seat, said incumbents were being closely scrutinized up and down the ballot.

"I think what it does point to is that incumbents, no matter what they are, need to be put on notice that people are not happy with the way the country is run," Shimkus said.

"He (Bush) is an incumbent, and all the incumbents have to be put on notice that the people out on the street are frustrated and angry."

"I think Bush will win, and I think then our party will come together," he said.

The nation's problems are putting heat on incumbents of both parties, said Gov. Jim Edgar, Saturday's guest of honor.

"I think the president is experiencing what any incumbent is experiencing," he said.

"The people, particularly at the national level, are very concerned about the economy, and scared. The primaries are a place where they can send that message."

"I don't see the president's problems being any greater than the problems any incumbent from Washington is experiencing right now," Edgar said.

"Whether that will translate into 'no' votes in the fall, I think only time will tell. I don't think so. Congress probably gets as much of the blame as the president does."

Madison County Board member Homer Henke of Moro said he didn't think the Bush-Buchanan race would have any impact on the Illinois GOP.

"I think Bush is going to win in Illinois, big time," he said.

Consultant chosen for bridge study

Illinois Transportation Secretary Kirk Brown announced Monday the selection of a consultant to prepare a feasibility and location study for a new bridge linking the Metro East in Illinois with St. Louis.

Sverdrup Corporation of St. Louis has been chosen by a joint selection committee composed of the Department of Transportation and Missouri Department of Highways and Transportation officials.

The study will be done in three stages, Brown said. The first stage will focus on traffic and land use as it exists. Alternate locations and designs for a bridge will be developed for future study, as well as where to link the facility with the existing interstate system. Also considered will be accommodations for mass transit, bikeways and pedestrians. Stage two of the study will be predicated on information developed during phase one and will result in a preliminary location design and a draft environmental impact statement. Stage three will result in a final location and environmental impact statement.

Once further negotiations are completed in three months, the study will begin. Work on all three stages will take nearly four years with the first stage estimated to take about one year.

The study will also determine costs and a timetable for the Mississippi River crossing and associated work.

Stage one is currently estimated to cost about $500,000. Costs for the remaining stages are yet to be determined. Illinois and Missouri will equally fund the study.

Last fall, Illinois Gov. Jim Edgar and Missouri Gov. John Ashcroft announced a cooperative effort between the two states to oversee the entire process of the project.

The governors announced the formation of a working group of the highway departments. St. Louis Regional Commerce and Growth Association and the Southwestern Illinois Leadership Council to advise on the study.

An East-West Gateway Coordinating Council report last fall showed that the Poplar Street Bridge, which now carries 120,000 vehicles representing three-fourths of the area's traffic across the river, would be choked with more than 150,000 vehicles per day in future years if another bridge is not built.

Taxpayers say no to withholding cut

Employees are going to their payroll offices in large numbers to tell President George Bush they don't want less tax withholding.

A check of Metro East employers found a sharp contrast to Bush's State of the Union prediction that people would prefer less withholding and more take-home pay with each paycheck.

"Something tells me a number of taxpayers will take me up on this one," Bush said Jan. 28. He added that families need the money "to help pay for clothing, college or to get a new car."

The new withholding means a refund difference of about $172 a year for a single person, $345 for a married couple and $690 for couples with two incomes.

But many area workers are filling out "4" forms to keep their old withholding levels.

Officials at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, said they are receiving new W-4 forms in bushels.

"We've had a real large number of people who want to try to keep their reductions the same," said Larry Maher, public affairs manager for Olin.

Olin has a newsletter to its nearly 4,000 employees detailing the March 1 withholdings decrease. About 2,000 employees have asked to keep the pre-March amount, Maher said.

"We're getting quite a bit of activity, which was what I expected," said Larry Hinton, payroll office manager at SIUE.

Nearly 300 of the 2,500 faculty and staff said they wanted to keep the bang in their pay.

People should multiply their March federal withholding by 12 months to get an idea of their 1992 federal tax, said Sonya Jacobs of the Internal Revenue Service in Springfield.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes the parties to a dissolution of marriage will enter into settlement negotiations before the divorce is finalized. What if the husband and wife have apparently reached an oral agreement, and then one of the parties changes his mind? Is this agreement binding on the parties? Illinois law states that there was an oral property settlement agreement, that spouse will have to establish the existence of this agreement by clear and convincing evidence. The question that frequently arises in these cases is whether the husband and wife intended that the agreement be put in writing before it would be considered complete. If this is the case, there can be no contract between the husband and wife until there is a writing, even if the actual terms of the divorce have been agreed upon by the parties.

In one recent case, the wife filed for divorce after a 16-year marriage. During one contested hearing involving property issues, the Court recessed during which time the parties discussed settlement of their property disputes. The parties apparently entered into an oral property settlement agreement, but the agreement was never put in writing.

Later, the husband asked that a judgment of dissolution be entered with division of their property in accordance with the terms of the alleged oral property settlement agreement. The wife admitted that the parties had undertaken settlement negotiations, but she denied the existence of any oral agreement. The trial judge refused to enforce the oral property settlement agreement. The testimony resumed, and the Court entered a judgment of dissolution where the husband was awarded substantially less property than he would have received according to the terms of the alleged agreement. The husband took the case on appeal.

The Appellate Court found that there was no valid agreement between the parties. The Court noted that property settlement agreements are customarily put into writing. The Court felt the husband and wife in this case contemplated that a written agreement would be signed before the terms of the alleged agreement.

The parties to a divorce who enter into settlement negotiations should immediately put any oral agreement in writing and have it signed by the husband and wife. This will provide added assurance that the terms of the agreement will ultimately be binding on the parties.

Democratic primary choices

Sen. Alan Dixon has twice set vote-getting records in statewide races, but he would be wrong to count on his past popularity to carry him this time. Dixon's relatively conservative voting record has come under heavy attack, deservedly and undeservedly, and a lot of voters seem to believe the time has come to send him a message.

As the Senate's chief deputy majority whip, Dixon has as one of his main responsibilities to, when faced with a sure presidential veto, come up with compromise legislation. Since he is faced with "The Veto President," Dixon's position is sure to give one a quick dose of reality. Much of Dixon's perceived conservatism actually boils down to being realistic.

But, even if a message needs to be sent to Dixon, this is not the time to send it. Taking the third most powerful person in the Senate, a person with a proven ability to get things done, and replacing him with a newcomer to Washington would be a severe blow to Illinois' representation at the national level. As such, it should be considered so drastic a step that it should be taken only as a last resort.

Whatever his perceived transgressions, nothing Dixon has done merits so drastic a step. Therefore, Sen. Alan Dixon deserves Democrats' vote March 17.

The state Supreme Court represents the last chance for common sense and real people to be injected into the enforcement of laws and regulations. So, while the Supreme Court justices need to be sharp lawyers, they also need familiarity with the lives of "just plain folks."

Moses Harrison best fills that bill and deserves Democrats' vote for Supreme Court justice in the 5th Judicial District. The Madison County circuit clerk's office is getting ready to move into the computerized, fast-paced world of the 21st century and it is going to take a strong manager to oversee its transition from the pen-and-ink era into the age of random access memory.

Matt Melucci's proven track record as the director of the Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission, executive director of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council and chief of staff for Rep. Jerry Costello more than qualifies him for the position and Matt Melucci deserves nomination as circuit clerk.

Madison County State's Attorney Bill Haine had a rough first year in office. While much of the trouble could be traced to his predecessors or subordinates, Haine never pointed the finger away from himself. As the person in charge, Haine took the blame and promised to do better the next time.

For the last three years, Haine has kept his promise to do better and, as a result, has set records for felony prosecutions, DUI prosecutions and a host of other prosecutions. Both law enforcement officials and private citizens have begun to have their faith restored in the criminal justice system in Madison County during Haine's term in office.

Bill Haine has performed well as Madison County State's attorney and he deserves voters' support in the primary.

Choices for County Board

Since there are no Republican candidates in any of the local Madison County Board districts, for local citizens this is the County Board election.

In District 16, although Morris Miles is the incumbent, redistricting means a lot of voters are looking at him for the first time. We believe they will like what they find. Miles is finishing his term on the board as a former vice-chairman of the board. Those who know him will vote for him, and we believe Morris Miles deserves re-election.

In District 19, Frank Laub has adequately represented his constituents for two terms and his record shows no reason he shouldn't be re-elected.

In District 21, Ray Romine is a newcomer to politics, but is by no means a newcomer to public service. As a captain with the Granite City Fire Department and a union official with the Firefighters Union for more than 21 years, Romine has learned to get things done under pressure and while facing tight budgets. We believe he has the knowledge to work for the citizens of his district and that Ray Romine should be elected as County Board member for District 21.

Redistricting has given District 22 a whole new look and two incumbents. Frank Dutko, one of those incumbents, has traditionally represented Madison on the board, but now must appeal to Granite City voters who may be hearing of him for the first time.

As police chief in Madison, Dutko proved he was able to keep high standards and rise above his surroundings. As a County Board member, Dutko has maintained that high personal and professional standard while representing his district well. Frank Dutko deserves to be re-elected to represent District 22.

In District 23, it is impossible to overlook Don Garrett's hard-hitting campaign based on race. Through the years, as the only black member of the board from this area, Garrett has faced a succession of "white hopes" and "Oreos" (black outside, white inside). Garrett's opponents in this election don't fall into those categories, but old habits die hard. Racial issues aside, Garrett has kept the voters informed about pending actions by the board and, whenever a pending action might be of particular interest, has visited all three city councils in his district to get their input. Don Garrett has represented District 23 well and deserves re-election.

In District 25, incumbent Donald Rea has made trash disposal one of his top priorities and, as a result, has become a leader in recycling efforts throughout the county. A proven manager and leader, he will put his County Board experience to work for District 25, and Don Rea deserves re-election.

Backs incumbent for county board

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to direct this letter to the voters of County Board District 16, which includes all seven precincts in the City of Granite City and two precincts in Nameoki Township.

One of the candidates in this race is unable to work. However, he did not reveal this in the information given to various newspapers concerning his candidacy.

I find it quite interesting that this candidate is unable to work but seems quite able to walk throughout all nine precincts, knock on doors, put up signs and engage in various other politically related activities.

More importantly, just what can this candidate do for our district? What, anything, has he already done?

He is quick to offer the possibility of getting the job done with money, perhaps and pledges, but the reality is—this is nice rhetoric, but has no basis in performance.

We, the voters of this district, need to carefully examine the issues and determine who can best represent us. The incumbent, with a proven record, or someone who only thinks he can do the job?

The choice is ours. Vote on March 17—let your choice be known.

Perry for clerk

TO THE EDITOR:

This year, the people have a good choice for circuit clerk. Those running for this office include an ex-state trooper, an ex-police officer and a newcomer whom I know very little about.

My choice is the ex-trooper, Fred Perry.

I have known Mr. Perry for a number of years. While he was a state trooper, he was assigned to the lieutenant governor for four years in Springfield. Before retirement, he served as a trooper in District 11, our local area.

He is now a bailiff at the Courthouse in Edwardsville. He has always been a straightforward, honest individual. He is one we all can put our trust in to do a good job for our county.

I hope the voters of Madison County choose to elect Fred Perry.

ROY BOUSE
Edwardsville

Overqualified?

TO THE EDITOR:

I read with some amusement the excellent qualifications of most of the people running for Madison County circuit clerk.

With all that background, why didn't they ever run before? After all, the last guy on the job was only a pipefitter.

JOSEPH MAGYAR
Granite City

Choose the best

TO THE EDITOR:

I hope every voter takes time to check on the candidates they intend to vote for. It is very important to choose only the best person to represent you, not just in these trying times, but at all times.

When you select anyone to look out for your best interest (not theirs) it pays to be selective and look for "the best." Demand that your candidate be really concerned about your concerns and problems.

We should be able to pick up the phone and call any candidate and express our concerns.

We have noticed only two candidates who are willing to extend an invitation to call them at any time for their views—Helen Hawkins and Judge Charles Chapman.

We need this type of person as our representative in our government.

MR. AND MRS. O.T. POTTER
Granite City

Endorses Bridick

TO THE EDITOR:

During the last sheriff's elections, I received outstanding support from the voters of Madison County. I took that support to mean that the voters have confidence in me and trust my judgment.

I believe my judgment has been sound and in the best interest of the people of Madison County.

I am now asking you to trust my judgment again. My support, my confidence and my endorsement for that the voters have confidence in me and trust my judgment.

Don Bridick has been a friend of mine for many years and has been serving as my director of special operations. I have had a chance to evaluate him and I say to you, without hesitation, that I believe he will be an outstanding circuit clerk and serve the people to the best of his ability. He has always been a stable, sincere and dependable person.

Ads by rich man

TO THE EDITOR:

These days we are bombarded by slick, expensive advertising campaigns urging us to buy everything from soap to tennis shoes. Now we get ads for U.S. Senate seats to the list.

A Chicago lawyer, personal-injury attorney Al Hofeld, who has never so much as served as a precinct committeeman, wants us to buy him as a serious candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Being rich and looking good while sitting on a desk reciting some media handler's verbiage does not qualify someone for the Senate. That's how Indiana got Dan Quayle.

No sale, Mr. Hofeld.

MARY ANNE GANLEY

Supports Milton

TO THE EDITOR:

Wake up! What is happening to Granite City politics?

It is Skubish really a serious candidate or a stalking horse for the Madison politicians?

Frank Dutko lives in the city of Madison. Who will he represent, Madison or Granite City?

Do we, Granite City residents, have a County Board representative to be from Madison?

Don't let Granite City be sold out to Madison political interests.

"Junior" Milton of Granite City has been your District 22 County Board representative for 20 years and is vice chairman of the Madison County Board, the second most important position on the board.

The 22nd District and Granite City need the strongest representation on the board.

"Junior" is a retired steelworker, a member of SOAR (Steelworkers Organization of Active Retirees) and a long-time friend. He needs your vote and support.

Let's support serious local candidates in the upcoming election. On March 17, make sure you go to the polls and support our only serious local candidate for County Board District 22, Herbert "Junior" Milton.

P.S. Thanks to the editor and paper for printing the issues.

FOSTER L. FREDERICK
District 22, Granite City

Skilled, diligent

TO THE EDITOR:

March 17, primary election day, is a very important date for state and local officials. But let us not forget the local election choices that day. In particular, we need to pay close attention to the County Board election.

I recommend that everyone in County Board District 16 vote to re-elect Morris Miles. He is the only candidate who has the experience and qualifications necessary to competently represent District 16.

Miles has served on a multitude of committees in the past 12 years, including chairman of the Special Service Area 1 Sanitary Sewer District, which will end its bond debt in 1993. He has been a member of the Personnel, Environment and Health Institutions committees and has served a four-year term as vice chairman of the County Board.

County Board minutes show that Miles has always worked diligently to maintain a balanced budget and to keep our taxes down and our services at a premium level. The records also show that he has opposed tax increases and any attempts to reduce services to the county.

Miles makes himself readily available to his constituents and gives straight answers. Sometimes these are not popular answers, but the public must understand that, to reach a solution to any problem, a certain process must be followed.

These processes are often outdated, drawn out and overrun with red tape and bureaucratic obstacles. Miles is well seasoned and has the knowledge and authority to overcome many of these obstacles, but no one person can be held accountable for each and every situation.

Another problem that many elected officials incur is being blamed or held responsible for circumstances or situations for which they have no jurisdiction.

For example, the confusion of township issues with county issues, or state issues identified as county issues, or even being held accountable for decisions in which they had no input.

We in District 16 are very fortunate to have the strong leadership that Morris Miles has provided us for the past 12 years. He is an independent thinker who makes effective decisions that promote improvement and efficient government.

Punch 139 on March 17 for continued personal, professional and responsible representation.

ROBERT C. LECKRONA
South Roxana

Re-elect Miles

TO THE EDITOR:

As a long-time resident of County Board District 16, I would like to make the voters aware of my choice for our board member, Morris Miles.

I have worked with Morris for several years and can attest to his abilities and qualifications. He has done numerous things to improve this district.

He is a dedicated public servant, serving the needs of all those he represents to the best of his ability. He readily gives up "leisure time" to pursue issues that need to be resolved.

He quickly responds to all calls and communications from the persons in his district.

Can we afford not to re-elect this man who has done so much more for the community?

Being a County Board member entails much more than attending a meeting once a month. It requires long hours of outside research and investigation to more clearly understand the needs and issues of the people.

Morris Miles has proven beyond a doubt that he is ready and more than willing to "give his best" to this district. Let's stick with a winner. Punch 139 on March 17.

CHARLOTTE STARR
Mitchell

Vote for Knott

TO THE EDITOR:

There are only 29 board members in Madison County, one of which represents the people in District 16 on all county matters.

He votes on landfills and their control. He can set new taxes where none existed. He can call elections on county nursing homes which serve a select few.

He has a great input into zoning acceptance and rejection. He has control of our sewers, dog pound, county bus transportation and many other county functions.

I think this is a very important job and needs someone that is interested in his/her district above themselves.

I supported our present County Board member years ago. Now I feel that he has become too entwined in the political procedure to be effective for the people he serves.

I feel that Charles "Tim" Knott is the nearest person running for County Board in District 16 who can fill our needs.

Friend of labor

TO THE EDITOR:

As secretary-treasurer and business representative of Teamsters Local 525, Alton, I am proud to announce the endorsement of Don Bridick, candidate for circuit clerk of Madison County, in the election to be held November 6.

Local 525 has always supported the candidate who will best be a friend to organized labor.

We feel Don Bridick is the candidate who will do his best for labor and will put forth every effort in preserving solidarity, which is so important today.

Four Democrats are seeking circuit clerk nomination

The four Democratic candidates seeking the circuit clerk nomination March 17 are vying to get a shot at taking over an office that has been run by the same man for more than 30 years.

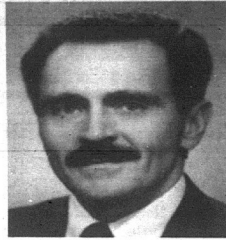

One professes he has the best administrative background; another says his experience in the work force makes him the best candidate; the remaining two cite long-standing, good working relationships with the clerk's office.

All four agreed that the circuit clerk's office, which has been run by Willard "Butch" Portell since 1960, needs to be updated with new computers to better serve the public.

"I think people support me because they've seen me perform," said Matt Melucci, 48, who owns a Collinsville consulting business. "I believe I've got the education and the background."

Melucci, endorsed by the Democratic Party and backed by Portell, is running against Max Shaffer of Glen Carbon, Don Bridick of Granite City and Fred Perry of Glen Carbon.

A former chief of staff for U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Bellefonte, Melucci has the backing of a number of labor groups, including the Committee on Political Education. He said he has earned COPE's support, despite owning a consulting business that has negotiated with county unions.

"It's an accomplishment, it's not acrimony," said Melucci, whose resume includes director of administration for Madison County, executive director of the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council and a director of the

Matt Melucci

Southwestern Illinois Law Enforcement Commission. "I think that I do a good job."

Shaffer's campaign is based mainly on his blue-collar background.

"My experience is with the private sector," said the 47-year-old former owner of General Sewer Service & Contracting in Glen Carbon. "I've been a union member ever since I joined the work force."

Shaffer said everyday workers

should have more say in political issues, just as everyday people determine the guilt or innocence of a criminal suspect in the jury system.

"I think it's about time some of our jury members start serving as public servants," said Shaffer, who said he would extend office hours and not accept salary increases if elected.

Madison County Sheriff's Deputy Don Bridick, 55, director of courthouse operations, said his 23 years of dealing with the circuit clerk's office makes him the best candidate. Furthermore, he said, his experience includes helping Madison County Sheriff Bob Churchich stay within the department's $4.1 million budget.

"Administration is not new to me," Bridick said. "At this point I could better serve the people of Madison County as circuit clerk. I'm not a professional politician. I'm not using the circuit clerk's office for a stepping stone for other office."

Though he didn't get the Democratic endorsement, Bridick said the party is split in its loyalty. The Democrats in his corner along with endorsements from a number of local labor organizations will help him win the race, he said.

"I am qualified to be circuit clerk," Bridick said. "I would not have the sheriff's endorsement if he didn't think I was capable."

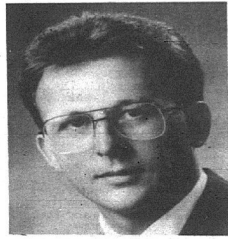

Fred Perry, a court bailiff and former Illinois State Police investigator, said he, too, has years of experience with the circuit clerk's office.

"It's an office I've been associated with for more than 30 years," he said. "I feel comfortable running for the office."

To spread his message, Perry said he has been knocking on doors and meeting people throughout the county for more than a year.

"I said when I announced back in January that any opponent will have to get out and work to beat me," Perry said. "My campaign will not stop until 7 p.m. March 17. That's when the polls close."

Fall races shaping up for auditor, recorder

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Neither Democratic incumbent in the Madison County auditor and recorder races nor their Republican challengers face opposition in next week's primary election.

Fred Bathon, 37, Madison County auditor since 1988, will face Republican Gary L. Henderson of Glen Carbon in November.

Bathon and his wife, Terri, live at 1009 Reynolds St. in Madison. They have three children: Rachel, 18, Jacob, 12, and Jessica, 10.

Bathon spent seven years working in the auditor's office before seeking election. Before that, he worked at the U.S. Department of the Treasury.

Bathon also served as the treasurer for the City of Madison until retiring from that office at the end of February. He is moving to Edwardsville.

Bathon said many improvements have been made in the auditor's office since his election, including upgraded computer technology and the implementation of new financial systems.

The office has been recognized nationally with two awards for excellence in financial reporting and a third award for the design of a pooled investment system.

"I believe that my record clearly demonstrates my enthusiasm for the job," Bathon said.

Henderson, 46, is a former Madison County state's attorney, and John Rhine, a Mount Carmel lawyer.

Voters will nominate one of the two March 17 in a district composed of Madison, St. Clair and 35 other Southern Illinois counties.

Weber, 43, has focused his have two children, Gary Jr., 25, and Shari, 22.

Henderson worked with McDonnell Douglas for more than 20 years in positions ranging from administrator to executive vice president.

In those jobs, Henderson said, he has dealt with budgets, forecasting, suppliers and accounting reports. Henderson, a member of the Lewis and Clark Community College Board of Trustees, also has a background in data processing and information systems.

Henderson said he is seeking office for three reasons.

"The auditor should be independent of the dominant party, since he has to report on how other departments are spending taxpayers' money," Henderson said.

"Property taxes can be held in check only if each department has the line on spending."

"And, incumbency should not be a lifetime position."

Donohoo, 37, has been the Madison County recorder of deeds since 1988. He and his wife, Brenda, live at 320 Eastmor Drive in East Alton with their children, Chris, 16, and Tim, 12.

Donohoo, a certified public accountant, was previously a senior citizen program coordinator and a machinist. He also previously served on the Madison County Board.

Donohoo said he is proud of the accomplishments of his office during his first term. Those include the incorporation of a computer system, the addition of a Fax machine and making fees payable by MasterCard and Visa.

"Improved communication with constituents, increased efficiency and productivity are required for today's government worker," Donohoo said. "I feel that our office has provided such service and has operated in an effective, well respected and professional manner."

Donohoo will be challenged by Republican John Elliff of Glen Carbon in November.

Elliff, 52, and his wife, Dolores, live at 276 Collinsville. They have three grown children.

Elliff is an information systems and telecommunications analyst.

He has more than 20 years of management experience, 27 years of working with information systems and four years working with telecommunications.

"I want to use my experience to bring state-of-the-art computer and records management services to the residents and businesses of Madison County served by the recorder's office," Elliff said.

He said he is a Democrat, a conservative, a liberal, a Protestant or a Catholic, he said.

Rhine's campaign has focused on judicial reform. He said that as a Supreme Court justice he would work to change rules and procedures to help reduce delay and expense without sacrificing fairness.

Weber said he favors other rule changes, including expedited review of death penalty appeals and a change in the state's "speedy trial" law.

That law requires that criminal defendants who are in custody be brought to trial within 120 days. Judges typically dismiss charges if prosecutors fail to act.

"The rule was meant to ensure that people didn't have to sit in jail forever and that's a good

Hot verbal battle continues in race for state's attorney

Political punches have been exchanged early and often in a heated bout between two Alton lawyers vying for county state's attorney.

Incumbent State's Attorney Bill Haine said he is doing a job that challenger Dan O'Neill couldn't handle.

O'Neill, said the other hand, said it's time to get the politicians out of the chief prosecutor's office.

He has no concept of the job," Haine said. "I don't want to be personally negative, but I truly believe this job is beyond him. He's always been a marginal lawyer in the system."

O'Neill said it's time to reverse the priorities of the present administration and "put prosecution ahead of politics."

Haine, he said, is a politician more than he is a lawyer who puts people behind bars. "Politics have no place in the prosecutorial office."

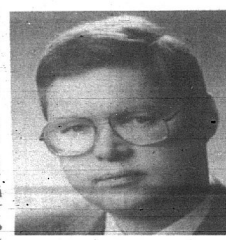

No Republican is running in the primary March 17, but the county Republican Party could name a candidate on the general election ballot to face the Democratic winner.

Haine, who has been endorsed by the county Democratic Party and a number of law enforcement unions, said the state's attorney's office has come a long way since he took over in 1980.

More criminals are going to jail, more task forces have been created to help prosecute drunk driving and child abuse cases, and more law enforcement agencies are cooperating with prosecutors, he said.

"Our results have been excellent," Haine said. "We've come a long way but we've got a good way to go."

Haine said his office has not backed away from any controversy, including the time when he had to sue the city of Alton — his hometown — to get officials to clean up the city landfill.

Bill Haine

Another controversy he cited was the filing of criminal charges against a woman for attempting to transmit the AIDS virus.

"I have not ducked any tough issues," Haine said.

If voters elect O'Neill, Haine said the state's attorney's office would be thrown back to the era when his predecessor, former State's Attorney Dick Allen, had the office "in a total wreck, total shambles."

O'Neill, now on leave as an assistant attorney general, criticized Haine for a campaign pledge Haine made four years ago to keep plea bargaining out of the prosecutor's office.

The amount of plea bargaining casts a shadow over the number of people prosecutors have sent to prison, O'Neill said.

Dan O'Neill

Haine said plea bargaining does happen, but only when his office has no other alternatives.

If elected, O'Neill said he would work to make sure prosecutors commit fewer technical errors — like the one that prompted a judge to declare for the second time a mistrial of a child pornography case against a Granite City man.

In the second trial of the man, an assistant state's attorney inadvertently referred to the jury from the first case, after a judge had instructed him not to do so.

O'Neill said he is running for state's attorney because he is right for the job. Also, people should have a choice when it comes to picking the county's top prosecutor, he said.

Haine said O'Neill has "come upon the scene of a great battle and wants to shoot the survivors."

Incumbents in Congress unopposed

SPRINGFIELD — Two area incumbent congressmen are unopposed in the March 17 primary, and U.S. Rep. Richard Durbin, D-Springfield, faces a challenge in November.

Durbin's new 20th Congressional District covers about half the population and about two-thirds of Madison County. It also includes Jersey, Greene, Macoupin and Calhoun counties.

First elected in 1982, Durbin is seeking a sixth term in a district that is about 37 percent new to him.

Madison County Treasurer John Shimkus of Collinsville hopes a Madison County base will give him an upset over Durbin in November. Shimkus was a surprise winner for the county office in 1990 and has no opposition for the GOP nomination in March.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Bellefonte, so far has no opposition for either the primary or general election.

Court candidates disagree on debating

The debate in a race for the Republican nomination for a Southern Illinois seat on the Illinois Supreme Court has mostly centered on how the judicial candidates should be allowed to debate.

Supreme Court rules prohibit judges and judicial candidates from taking stands regarding ongoing issues, such as capital punishment.

Seeking the GOP nomination in the 5th District are Don Weber of rural Edwardsville, a former Madison County state's attorney, and John Rhine, a Mount Carmel lawyer.

Voters will nominate one of the two March 17 in a district composed of Madison, St. Clair and 35 other Southern Illinois counties.

Weber, 43, has focused his campaign on Supreme Court Rule 67, which prohibits the candidates from commenting on "disputed legal or political issues."

Weber said he thinks the rule is unconstitutional.

"It's not so much my right, but the voter's right to know how I feel about things," Weber said.

Rhine, 39, takes the opposite stance, contending courts "need to be depoliticized, not made more political." He said he is not seeking the bench to pursue a political agenda.

"No party should ever appear before a Supreme Court justice or any other judge, and feel his chances for a fair decision on the case are affected in any way by whether that party or his opponent is a Republican, a Democrat, a conservative, a liberal, a Protestant or a Catholic," he said.

Rhine's campaign has focused on judicial reform. He said that as a Supreme Court justice he would work to change rules and procedures to help reduce delay and expense without sacrificing fairness.

Weber said he favors other rule changes, including expedited review of death penalty appeals and a change in the state's "speedy trial" law.

That law requires that criminal defendants who are in custody be brought to trial within 120 days. Judges typically dismiss charges if prosecutors fail to act.

"The rule was meant to ensure that people didn't have to sit in jail forever and that's a good idea, but it's been a trap for clerical errors by state's attorney's offices," Weber said.

Haine said defense attorneys should be required to notify prosecutors after 115 days have elapsed. "Then we wouldn't have these surprise attacks that do nothing for justice," he said.

Weber has tried and won several murder cases. He successfully prosecuted Paula Sims in 1990 for the first-degree murder of her infant daughter and co-authored a recent best-selling book about the case.

In addition to his law practice, Haine is chairman of the Law Office Economics Section of the Illinois State Bar Association and has been a director and past officer of Voices for Illinois Children, a children's advocacy group.

Democratic slugfest delights GOP hopeful

Republican U.S. Senate candidate Rich Williamson is sitting on the sidelines watching a Democratic slugfest.

Williamson, unopposed in the Republican primary March 17, is enjoying watching three Democrats battle in a bruising contest for their party's Senate nomination.

"The only thing better than getting a lot of attention myself is having the Democrats kicking each other in the shins," Williamson of Evanston, said Thursday on a campaign visit to Madison and St. Clair counties.

"I don't have to get into the ring until the eighth round," he said. "Whoever is standing on the other side will be a little bit bruised."

Williamson predicted that incumbent U.S. Sen. Alan Dixon of Belleville will survive challenges from Democratic primary opponents Al Hefel and Carol Moseley Braun.

But Williamson said the Democratic race has shown that voters are ready for a change. Some of the anti-Dixon sentiment will benefit his campaign, Williamson said.

Labor makes endorsements

The Tri-City Chapter of the Greater Madison County Federation of Labor, AFL-CIO, has announced its endorsements for local County Board races in the March 17 Democratic primary. The endorsements were made at a meeting Monday at the United Steelworkers Local 67 hall, where members were given the recommendations of the chapter's Political Screening Committee.

The following candidates were endorsed:

For District 16, Helen Hawkins; District 19, Frank Laub; District 21, Ray Romine; District 22, Herbert "Junior" Milton; District 23, Steve Ortiz; and District 25, Robert Barthelmy. No endorsement was made in District 20 because no candidate sought the endorsement.

Fund raiser Saturday for cleanup

Project Cleanup will hold a chili and spaghetti day at 11 a.m. Saturday, March 14, at the Centerville Village Hall, 5800 Bond Ave., to introduce St. Clair County to its Sponsor or Adopt a Drug or Alcohol User Network.

The network involves 12 churches and a number of community and civic leaders from Granite City, Belleville, Venice, Collinsville, Centerville, East St. Louis, Washington Park and Edwardsville.

The program grew out of a meeting Dec. 18 at the New Salem Missionary Baptist Church in Venice.

Project Cleanup was founded by the Rev. O.V. Carter of Centerville. Persons interested in learning more about Project Cleanup or its programs may contact Carter at 337-3635 or 337-2077, the Rev. E. Hill at 398-0625, the Rev. Jimmie Wiggins at 398-7934 or the Rev. John Henry Williams at 452-5124.

Senior Citizens Fair set

The annual Senior Citizens Fair will be held Monday, March 16, at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Activities are scheduled from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Except for food service, the event is free to all area senior citizens. Entertainment will include ballroom dancing, vocalists, choral groups, instrumental groups, dance troupes, comedy acts, and kitchen bands.

In addition, workshops, films, craft displays, informational booths on services available to senior citizens and free health screenings will be available throughout the fair.

The Warren Brown Orchestra will provide music for dancing. Additional information may be obtained by contacting the Gerontology Program at SIUE at 692-3454.

Deadline on crop disaster assistance

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will administer a crop disaster assistance program.

The program will compensate eligible producers for crop losses caused by drought, flood and other natural disasters in either 1990 or 1991.

"To be eligible, producers with crop insurance must have had losses greater than 35 percent of their established ASCS assigned yield," said Madison County ASCS official Ray Givlio.

Those without crop insurance must have had losses greater than 40 percent of their assigned yield.

Program applications may be filed through March 13.

The 1990-91 crop disaster program provides cash payments for production losses on participating program crops of wheat and feed grains; nonparticipating program crops; soybeans and all commercial nonprogram crops.

Givlio said disaster payments will be computed according to the 1990 Farm Bill, and payments to farmers should be issued starting April 16. Further details of the disaster program may be obtained from the Madison County ASCS office at 656-7300.

Presidents Reagan and Bush.

Williamson practices general corporate law as a partner in a Chicago law firm.

"The people are mad that Congress is not doing its job," he said. Williamson said he favors term limitation and will oppose any legislation that exempts congressmen from provisions applicable to other citizens.

He said he will work to balance the federal budget and provide the president a line-item veto.

State committee to try to improve redistricting method

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

SPRINGFIELD — After two confusing decades, state officials are poised to debate a troublesome legislative remapping process that appoints group leaders through name-drawing.

"I said it last fall, and I repeat, the people of this state deserve something more than representation by lottery," Secretary of State George Ryan said recently in announcing a redistricting reform committee.

Ryan in early March named 25 political leaders and educators to a committee he hopes will suggest how Illinois can bring less controversy into the once-a-decade method of drawing legislators' boundaries.

With the recent remap process finished — after enduring partisan bickering — "now is the time to begin debating the merits of a process that has been unable to produce reasonable compromise," Ryan said.

The lottery portion of the redistricting plan creates the most heat with legislators and other state officials, who are angry that such a politically hot issue is left to a game of chance. The Illinois Constitution requires that a name be drawn out of a hat to select a tie-breaking ninth member of the Legislative Redistricting Commission in the event the commission is unable to agree on a new map.

The eight-member, bipartisan commission consists of politically connected officials charged with designing a new legislative map each decade following the U.S. Census. The group seeks to draw a new map to account for population shifts.

In 1970, members of the state Constitutional Convention voted for adding such a lottery provision into the process, hoping it would scare the commission into approving a map on time with minimal bickering.

Convention delegates hoped the redistricting commission would go to all lengths to avoid a lottery because a slip drawn from a hat could give majority remapping control to either party.

For example, if a Democrat was plucked from a hat, Democrats gained control of the commission and supposedly could draw a map to ensure Democratic strength in many districts, thereby solidifying control of the Legislature the next 10 years.

In the end, the lottery proved undaunting. It didn't scare officials into compromise.

The redistricting commission deadlocked and triggered a lottery drawing the last two decades.

In 1980, Democrats won the lottery and allegedly carved a state map that cemented their hold on both houses of the General Assembly.

But in 1990, Republicans won the lottery and presented a map that could end up giving them control of at least the Senate (where Democrats hold a weak 31-28 majority) following the elections.

The parties holding the redistricting commission minority appealed to the courts during both redistricting years. They claimed the final remap plan violated voting rights laws that called for fair distribution of minorities.

For both appeals, the courts basically said the remap plan was substantially fair and would stand.

The inability of the system to encourage compromise and the inevitability of the process ending in a lottery caused officials to call for new remap rules.

"The convention's intent was to create a tie-breaker that fostered compromise, but that clearly has not been the case," said Jeff Ladd, a Chicago attorney and delegate to the state Constitutional Convention of 1970.

"This panel, I hope, will devise a means of providing a legislative solution to a legislative issue, keeping the courts out of the process next time around," said Ladd, who will be a member of the remap review committee.

In choosing members for the redistricting review committee, Ryan said he had no personal agenda to advance other than hopes for a better plan.

IP preparing for refunds to customers

SPRINGFIELD — Illinois Power Co. and three other groups have agreed to set up a procedure for keeping track of potential refunds if the utility's recent electric rate hike is reduced.

The Attorney General's Office, the Office of Public Counsel and an industrial customers' group have reached an agreement that the Illinois Commerce Commission must approve.

The agreement is similar to those in two previous Illinois Power rate cases, company spokesman Cindy Shelley said.

"It's a normal procedure. We set up accounting procedures to show how much people have paid and how much they would get back in the event there is a refund ordered."

The ICC is expected to reopen the rate case, although the 11 percent boost it granted last month would continue to be collected from the utility's electric customers.

The commission is expected to hear additional evidence on how much in "carrying charges" the company should be allowed to pass on to customers for its Clinton nuclear power electricity-generating plant.

Two appellate court cases appear to be in conflict on the issue, & the ICC did not allow an additional $19 million a year sought by the company. That boost would have raised rates by about another 2 percent.

Consumer groups have said previous carrying charges included in rate hikes must be taken out as a result of an Illinois Supreme Court decision.

The rehearing process could take six months or more.

Philippians 3:14 ... "I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Everything in God's creation is in forward motion. The universe, nature, and man. We know what would happen to our planet if forward motion stopped. Disaster! Believe it or not, man too is heading for trouble when his forward motion is stopped. Whatever life hands us we can't give up. We cannot dwell on past failures. We must keep pressing forward.

Remember that God is on your side. And with God all things are possible. He will never leave you nor forsake you.

There is a prize for those who keep pressing on. A reward for faithful service. Whosoever liveth and believeth in him shall never perish, but have everlasting life. Why not start forward for God today?

Bowling event to help Kid's Radio

Support continues to build throughout the area for bringing back Kid's Radio WXJO-FM, which went off the air earlier this month because of financial problems.

A fund-raising event was held Sunday on the Belleville Area College campus in Belleville. And this Sunday, a Bowl-A-Thon to raise money for the station will be held at Bowling in Granite City.

The event will be held from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Sunday.

The radio station, formerly known as the Imagination Station, went off the air March 2 due to a lack of funds. The station offered 24-hour programming aimed at children under the age of 12.

Another local event planned to raise money for WXJO is a car wash. It will be held Saturday, March 21, at the Bellemeor Shell.

Other local events being organized include a Parents-Kids dance featuring some of WXJO's former on-air personalities, a softball game, a skate-athon and a T-shirt sale.

Persons who desire more information or who wish to become involved in the fund-raising effort should contact Kin Benda, 931-6470.

Granite man has astronaut in his family

By Martin Richter
Staff writer

Maybe now people will believe Helen Matthews when she tells them she has a relative who's an astronaut.

Matthews, of Maryville, recently received an invitation from NASA to attend the maiden launch of the new space shuttle Endeavour in company of her cousin, astronaut Kathy Thornton.

"I've been telling my kids for two or three years now that I have an astronaut cousin, and they were like, 'Yeah, right Mom,'" Matthews said with a grin. "They believe me now."

St. Elizabeth offers screenings

St. Elizabeth Medical Center offers community health screenings.

According to a recent study, 90 percent of American adults over their blood pressure taken at some time during the last month, but fewer than five percent were monitoring their cholesterol level.

High blood cholesterol is one of the risk factors for developing heart disease. Elevated blood cholesterol levels can lead to early development of hardening of the arteries and coronary heart disease. Coronary heart disease is the cause of almost 30 percent of the two million deaths in the United States each year.

The National Institute of Health recommends that all adults age 20 and over have their blood cholesterol levels checked, because the chances of developing heart disease increase in proportion to the amount of cholesterol in the blood. By monitoring levels, an individual can take the steps necessary to lower cholesterol and the accompanying risk of developing heart disease.

St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Cardio Pulmonary Rehab and Prevention Program will be offering cholesterol testing, blood pressure checks and sugar screenings, plus a professional consultation on all test results on:

•Wednesday, March 18 at the Wellness Center, 2103 Iowa, in Granite City, from 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. Pre-registration is required. Please call St. Elizabeth Medical Center's Education Resources Department at 798-2201 for your appointment.

•Thursday, March 26, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at the Granite City Schnucks, 3401 Nameoki Road, in Granite City. Participants will be seen on a first-come, first-served basis. No appointments are needed.

At all locations, cholesterol level screenings, blood pressure tests and professional consultation on the results will be offered for $7; blood sugar tests, blood pressure tests professional consultation on the results will be offered for $1.

Warriors

made it to the sectional," said Warrior coach Bill Ohlendorf.

"But it's tough to talk about this team in the past tense. They all had outstanding seasons."

In the end, the Kahoks were just a little better — particularly Keene, an all-state and All-American selection who will play at the University of Illinois next year.

He scored 19 of his points in the championship game, including eight straight late in the half to turn a slim 23-22 Kahok lead into a 31-22 advantage.

First, he stole the ball and broke away for a dunk. Then he made another steal and sank a three-pointer. He did it again 15 seconds later.

"I wanted the ball tonight," said Keene. "We were looking forward to playing these guys again. We didn't feel we played as hard as we could have last time (a 65-51 Warrior win Feb. 7 in Granite City)."

Added to the Smiths, seniors Drake Marshall and John Cozair finished up their high school basketball careers.

Marshall, who averaged 24 points during the eight-game winning streak and more than 20 per game for the season, was held to 12.

Spaghetti dinner set for Saturday

The dinner will be held at the Niederhans United Methodist Church, located at 20th and Delmar. Dinner will be from the hours of 4 until 7 p.m.

will actually happen during the first week of May.

The Matthews will view the launch from a special area reserved for family members of the astronauts.

"Everybody's excited," she said. "Everybody's excited, but this one has taken on completely new significance (because it is a new shuttle)," she said.

"Nobody pays much attention to shuttle launches anymore, but this one has taken on completely new significance (because it is a new shuttle)," she said.

Matthews said she can't wait to go, and said her son is "more excited than I am."

Charges

Department said charges against Knapp were not filed earlier because medical authorities had indicated that, if Knapp lived, he would never be functional. When the medical prognosis improved, he said, the case was given to the Madison County State's Attorney office for possible charges.

Valencia said the Granite City detectives told the family in July that "enough pain and suffering has been meted out to this man" and said charges would not be pursued.

"Billy's condition hasn't changed since then, so I want to know what changed? Why have charges been filed now?" Valencia asked.

Pomeroy said that in July the detectives had been told by medical authorities that Knapp's chances for improvement were very dim. Because it was anticipated Knapp would never make a recovery, Pomeroy said, the detectives and state's attorney agreed not to pursue charges at that time.

"But given the fact there has been a recovery, and the fact he is driving again would indicate a rather substantial recovery, it would seem Knapp has recovered at least enough to answer to the charges in court," Pomeroy said.

Rella Knapp, William Knapp's mother, declined to comment on the case on the advice of William's attorney, William Mudge. She did say, however, that she believes William Knapp has regressed since the charges were filed.

"When he was in a coma, and the doctors said he would be a vegetable, I begged God for one more chance," Rella Knapp said. "When he came out of the coma the doctors said, 'All I can tell you is that God gave him that one more chance.' There had been no hope, but now Billy was alive. He will always be functionally dependent, but I'm happy with that. He was dead and I'm very grateful that now he's alive."

Mudge said it is his policy not to comment on a pending case, but he did say that a preliminary hearing in the case will be held Friday.

"At that time we will see the entire police investigation for the first time," Mudge said. "We are curious about the timing, why charges were not filed much sooner."

Trade

dry bulk materials and many types of general cargo by barge versus land transportation modes between Canada, the Middle East, Mexico and the U.S. East Coast ports," Bob Wydra, general manager of the Tri-City Port, said.

As Mexico privatizes and integrates its economy with the global economy, it must rely on its ports if international trade is to become commonplace, and if costly delays and congestion at the U.S./Mexican land border are to decrease, Wydra said.

The efficiency of the U.S. inland waterway system, referred to by Wydra as the Avenue of the Americas, will be backed up and work done for the cost-effective movement of commodities by barge, officially. They see barge shipping growing at a steadily increasing rate.

"This great natural waterway system linking us together in North America, north to south, has been enhanced by high-technology locks and dams and is effectively served by modern specialized barges, boats, and material handling equipment," Wydra said.

"The Avenue of the Americas will develop in the coming decade as one of the leading and most cost-effective trade routes for expanded North American trade," he predicted.

Assembled at the Tri-City Port is a wide range of facilities, warehouses and equipment that can accomplish the inexpensive transfer of all types of products and materials.

The advantageous geographic location of Southwestern Illinois is said to make it one of the major market centers in the U.S.

This area is served by major railroads, highways, air lines, and the most extensive and efficient inland waterway network in the world, according to Wydra.

"It is the interconnection between these transportation modes, however, that makes the Southwestern Illinois/Tri-City Port a unique center of commerce on the Avenue of the Americas. The availability of multi-modal shipping options available at Tri-City Port improves a Mexican company's ability to access markets elsewhere in Middle America," Tom Vazquez, director of the State of Illinois office in Mexico City, said.

"We have now positioned Tri-City Port and Southwestern Illinois as a premier location in the context of North American trade between the U.S., Mexico and Canada," Wydra said.

Southwestern Illinois transportation experts are going back to Mexico in two weeks and two additional marketing events are now being planned for Mexico City and Monterrey within 60 days, Tri-City Port officials said.

Hal Ketchum will bring 'American music' to Stages March 24

Singer/songwriter Hal Ketchum calls "Past The Point of Rescue," his debut album on Curb Records, a collection of "American music." "American music," describes his heartfelt, no-nonsense style of musical storytelling. Hailing from upstate New York, his talents have been seasoned by years on the Texas club circuit. Now living in Nashville, he brings fresh and honest voice to the country scene and beyond. Hal Ketchum and Linden King will be on stage at Stages in Madison at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

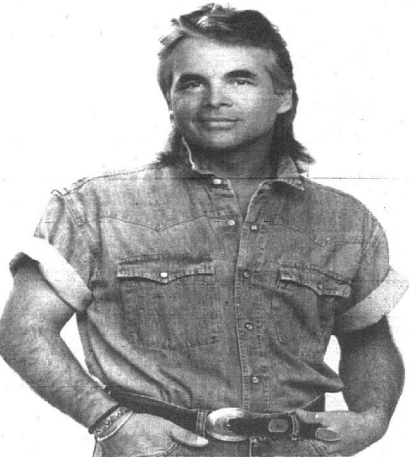

March 24. "Past The Point of Rescue" offers an exceptional batch of Ketchum's original tunes along with well-chosen songs by others, enhanced by the sure production touch of Jim Rooney (renowned for his work with Nancy Griffith and John Prine) and Allen Reynolds (who's credits include albums by Garth Brooks, Kathy Mattea, Emmylou Harris and other top artists). "Small Town Saturday Night," the album's first single, is a wry look at teenage romance and restlessness, delivered by Ketchum as a driving country/rock anthem. Such self-penned tracks as "Don't Strike a Match (To The Book of Love)" and "I Know Where Love Lives" describe real-life relationships with passion and sensitivity. "Five O'Clock World," a pop hit for the Vogues in the '60s, is given a striking contemporary treatment and "Old Soldiers" includes a special guest appearance by Kathy Mattea. It's no surprise that Ketchum sings of small town life with assurance — he was born and raised in Greenwich, N.Y. (population 2,500), located in the Adirondack Mountains near the Vermont border. Music was very much a part of his upbringing. "My dad played in a high school band and was real good on the banjo," he recalls. "The only organization that he ever belonged to besides the printer's union was the Buck Owens Fan Club. Any my grandfather had been a concert violinist who moved to upstate New York and started playing square dances and had a little swing band. So there was a lot of music around." Ketchum first started playing the drums and, by age 15, was performing in clubs with a local Rhythm and Blues trio. "My dad signed a permission slip to let me play because I was underage. It was a great sociology lesson for me to sit back in a little beer joint behind a set of drums. I'd get four hours of the world going by." While he hadn't started writing songs yet, he was absorbing a wide range of musical influences, from the hard country sounds of Merle Haggard and George Jones to singers/songwriters like Van Morrison and J.G. Edwards. Ketchum's priorities began to shift when he moved to Texas in 1981. Settling in the central part of the Lone Star State, he found himself drawn to the thriving local music scene. "The night I was moving into the house I'd bought there, I heard live music from somewhere in the distance. I got in my truck and drove into town and discovered this dance hall. I started going there regularly. On Sunday afternoons, they had great writers like Butch Hancock, Lyle Lovett and Townes Van Zandt come in and play. It made me concentrate on playing guitar and writing songs. That place became a real school for me." In 1986, Ketchum recorded 10 of his original songs for an independent album, "Threadbare Albino," released by Line Records in Europe and by Watermelon Records in the U.S.

Keene, Kahoks too much Warriors eliminated in sectional semifinal, 66-49

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Someone was going to carry a nine-game winning streak into Friday's game with East St. Louis Lincoln. Someone else was going to pack up gear for the summer.

It was the Kahoks who kept their train going full speed ahead while the Warriors were derailed before a capacity crowd at Fletcher Gym on Wednesday. Collinsville got just what it needed from Richard Keene and eliminated Granite City 66-49 in the Collinsville Sectional semifinals.

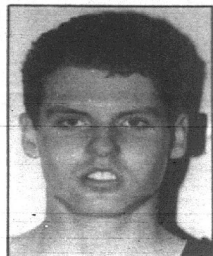

The Kahoks (21-7) will play Lincoln for the sectional title at 7:30 p.m. Friday. The Warriors can only wonder what might have been.

"We're still not playing our best basketball," said Kahok coach Bob Bone. "But each game it's getting a little better. Keene could hardly be much en assists, seven steals and a blocked shot.

"If there's one criticism I've had of Richard it's the need to get mentally tougher," said Bone. "A lot of it is just maturity. But his focus now is better than it's ever been."

The effort was there for the Warriors, but they had no one to match Keene. The trio of Jeff and Brian Smith and Drake Marshall, usually good for 55 points, managed 39. The game marked the end of the high school basketball careers of all three.

"When we got in our offense we were fine," said Warrior coach Bill Ohlendorf. "We just didn't get in it often enough. It all comes down to execution."

Despite constant pressure from the Kahoks, the Warriors hung close for most of the first half. They never led, though, and Collinsville turned a 23-22 game into a 31-22 edge in just under a minute thanks to Keene.

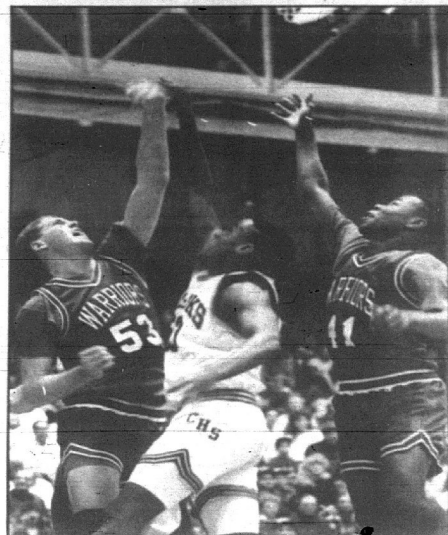

He made two steals, threw down a dunk and sank two 3-pointers and the Kahoks were off and running.

"The fans got us going tonight," said Keene. "They really helped us during that run. It's easy to play hard in a sectional game."

The Warriors were able to maintain a lead through much of their 65-51 win over Collinsville at home Feb. 7, when Keene was just 5 for 23 from the field. But the University of Illinois recruit was in control Wednesday. He was only 10 of 24 from the field, but five of the 10 were three-pointers.

"They were able to spread the floor and that really works to Keene's advantage," said Ohlendorf. "A couple of quick steals

Time bomb No. 24 explodes on Warriors

By David Wilhelm
Staff writer

Richard Keene is like a sleeping volcano. You know he's going to erupt, but you don't know when.

Tick, tick, tick. He releases a 3-pointer. No good. Tick, tick, tick.

Another long-range bomb by No. 24. Another miss. Tick, tick, tick. The anticipation grows.

Finally, Keene connects, and Collinsville High basketball fans glance at each other and say, "I knew it was coming."

Over the last three years, Kahok fans have grown accustomed to such scenes. And in Collinsville's 66-49 sectional semifinal Wednesday over the visiting Warriors, Keene gave them some more thrills.

After the Warriors (20-8) had cut the Collinsville lead to 23-22 in the second quarter, Keene downcourt before finishing with a slam dunk.

On Granite City's next possession, Keene came up with another steal. Seconds later, he nailed a 3-pointer. Then another. All of a sudden, the Kahoks had a 31-22 advantage.

"It gets our fans into it and gets our kids pumped up a little bit," Kahok coach Bob Bone said of Keene's 3-pointers. "I hope it continues to happen."

Keene's 28-point performance featured five 3-pointers, and they helped lift Collinsville (21-7) into Friday's 7:30 p.m. sectional championship game against East

Hard lesson

Trittschuh finds he's off U.S. National team

By Pete Hayes
Staff writer

Steve Trittschuh has learned two lessons many Americans have been learning lately. It's tough to hold a job, and the boss isn't always straightforward with you when you get the ax.

Trittschuh, a Granite City native and a starter on the United States National Soccer Team for four years, got his walking papers in January. It wasn't so much being cut, though. It was the way he found out.

"I received a notice in the mail that my health insurance was going to expire at the end of January," said Trittschuh from his home in Tampa, Fla., where he plays for the Tampa Bay Rowdies of the North American Professional Soccer League. "I made several calls to the team before someone finally told me why my insurance was running out. I was no longer on the team."

Trittschuh can handle disappointment. As a starter on the U.S. World Cup team that advanced to Italy in 1990, he learned. As an All-American on an SIUE team that never advanced to the NCAA Tournament, he learned. And as an All-American on excellent Granite City North teams that always seemed to lose to Granite City South or Collinsville in the playoffs, he learned. What he can't handle, however, is backhandedness.

"It's not so much being cut," he said. "But Bora (head coach Milutinovic) has never talked to me about it. He's never had the decency to inform me as to why or what."

Trittschuh's playing time started to decrease last year when Milutinovic replaced Bob Gansler as the coach.

"I guess I can understand that he wanted to take a look at everybody and that would mean I wouldn't play as much," said Trittschuh.

All team officials would tell

Trittschuh was "I didn't fit in with Bora's plans."

Trittschuh joined the National Team in 1987 and played in the Pan Am Games that year as well as the Olympics in Seoul, South Korea, in 1988. The Americans met with little success in the Olympics or the World Cup.

Gansler was moved from coaching to director of play in 1991 as Milutinovic took over on the field. The U.S. has become more competitive and have shocked a few observers. But Trittschuh somehow got lost in the shuffle.

He will turn 26 on April 24 and can still be recalled by the National Team. But his paycheck would be considerably less than the one he received as a full-time player under contract.

In the meantime, Trittschuh will turn his attention to the Rowdies. He's in the third year of a four-year contract and a pre-season drills begin this week.

This fall, he hopes to land a spot on a pro team in Germany or Holland. He spent almost a year with Sparta Prague in Czechoslovakia. But that isn't an option for Trittschuh and his wife, Suzanne.

"The people were nice and all," he said of Prague. "But things are just too different here than they were in Prague. They've treated me fairly and Tampa's a great place to live."

Lincoln holds off Crimsons, 63-57

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Free throws were the story last time the Lincoln Tigers faced Jacksonville, and they were again Tuesday.

The Tigers moved another step closer to the state tournament Tuesday by knocking off the top-seeded Crimsons 63-57 in the Collinsville Sectional semifinals at Fletcher Gym. The fourth-seeded Tigers made five straight free throws down the stretch after holding a slim 56-57 edge. Lincoln (19-7) will play the winner of Wednesday's Granite City-Collinsville game Friday at 7:30 p.m. for the sectional title.

"That's the difference between our team this year and our club last year," Lincoln coach Bennie Lewis said. "Last year's team didn't make its free throws down the stretch. But this one has, and it's paid off in the big ball games."

When these two teams met during the Collinsville/Schuicks Holiday Classic, the top-seeded Crimsons shot 30 free throws to none for the Tigers, which left

Cardinal gala set for June 11

By Jim Woodcock

When former Cardinal greets swoon all this summer to celebrate 100 years of National League baseball in St. Louis, it's likely that no Redbird will have as many fond memories as Terry Moore.

That's because Moore, of Collinsville, will be the oldest member of the Cardinals' alumni who will gather June 11 at Busch Stadium for the Centennial Celebration. There are several older ex-Cardinals still living, but

Trojanettes could be sitting on another gold mine • 100 Years

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Gene Briggs might be sitting on another gold mine. But he's going to test the merchandise before he stakes his claim. The Trojanette track program features some talented underclassmen, but it has to replace three state qualifiers from a year ago — shot putter Marvin Jones and relay runners Arion Dickens and Andrea Withcomb.

"Those were three dependable people we could count on to score some points," said Briggs. "That's our question mark. The girls who have contributed for a number of years aren't there anymore. Many of the girls we have now have never been in that role before."

Except for junior Yukeitha Gardner. All Gardner did last year was win the state championship in the 100 meter dash and finish second in the 200. That's the only race she lost all season. "What more can you say about Yukeitha?" Briggs said. "She's an outstanding athlete who deserves more recognition. But this is a new season and she's got to prove herself all over again. I'm not worried, though. She's not the type to rest on her laurels."

Gene Briggs
— regional coach of year

Neither are sophomore Tiffany Taylor and junior Latisha Swift. They joined Gardner at state on the 800 meter relay team.

"Those girls picked up some

valuable experience last season," Briggs said. "Tiffany's a strong runner and Swift has shown me a workmanlike attitude. She could have an outstanding year."

Madison depth.

"We've got some girls who are as fast or faster than Yukeitha," Briggs said. "I hope I can say the same thing in May after we've won some gold medals. This group could be outstanding, but it's way too early to get excited."

Newcomer Joi Woodfork, a sophomore transfer from Belleville East-attending Venice, will help the Trojanettes' distance running. Venice freshman Melinda Pittman, freshman Latisha Montgomery and sophomore Teresa Miller round out the distance events.

"Joi is a tremendous athlete in the middle distance events," Briggs said. "She has a lot of endurance. Teresa helped us win the sectional last year by placing in the mile and two-mile. She also set the school record in the mile (6:03.1)."

Junior Marsha Reed will participate in the jumping events, but junior Shandala Forshee (a member of the 4x200 relay team) will bypass track and play softball at Venice this spring.

Madison has finished in the top 10 at the Class A state meet seven times.

"I consider our program one of the best in the state and the best in southern Illinois among schools our size," said Briggs, who was again named the regional Class A coach of the year by the Illinois Track and Cross Country Coaches Association last season. "But now it's up to the girls. They have a lot of work to do. How hard they work will determine how successful we are this year."

apparently none — especially with Moore's impeccable credentials — who can make it back for the homecoming.

Moore, 79, is one of more than 30 former Cardinals who will be honored with festivities that will start at 7:30 p.m. in Busch Stadium. The program, which will be presented on an elaborate stage at second base, will feature videos on giant screens, anecdotes from many of the heroes of Cardinals baseball, and plenty of surprises.

Moore will be joined by teammates Stan Musial, Enos Slaughter, Marty Marion, Harry Walker, Whitey Kurovski and Max Lanier from the 1942 world champion Cardinals, who are celebrating the 50th anniversary of the title, plus many other Cardinals greats from 10 decades of baseball.

Jack Buck will be the master of ceremonies. Tickets for the event are $100 for a field seat (at a table of 10), $40 for a field box seat, $25 for a lounge seat and $15 for a terrace seat.

All fans will receive a special commemorative ticket, program and centennial gift. Fans purchasing $100 seats will also receive complimentary beverages, snacks, free parking, a special centennial gift and a pass to a private autograph session.

Also, an auction of the remaining Cardinals double-knit uniforms will be held that evening on the terrace level. Proceeds from the silent bid auction will also be donated to the RBI Program.

Music will be provided by Bob Kubak. Casual attire is the dress code and concession stands will be open.

Tickets may be purchased by mail with a $4 handling charge, by sending check, money order or Visa/MasterCard number (with expiration date) to Centennial Celebration, St. Louis Cardinals, P.O. Box 8787, St. Louis, Mo., 63102.

Order forms are also available at Busch Stadium. Tickets will be mailed after April 1. For more information, call 314-421-3606.

Steptoe hoping to develop potential of younger Trojans

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Charles Steptoe is plagued with low numbers and inexperience. But he's approaching the upcoming track season with a positive attitude.

"We've got 16 kids out and 12 of them are freshmen and sophomores," said the veteran Trojan coach. "But we've got some talent. The main thing is building up our loyalties and finding a leader. That's usually the case when you lose a talented senior class."

His biggest chore will be replacing Harold Moody — a state qualifier in the 400 meter dash the last two years. Also lost to graduation are state qualifiers Brian Campbell (long jump) and Greg Wray (a participant on the 1600 meter relay team).

But senior Alfonso Brandon, who joined Moody, Campbell and Wray at the state meet last season, returns.

"Alphonso brings a lot of experience to the team," Steptoe said. "Right now, I'd have to consider him our best prospect." Brandon jumped 22-2 in the

in a lot of places."

Senior Dennis Pinero will handle the distance events and he'll be supported by freshman Owen

Bronaugh from Venice.

Steptoe's biggest challenge every spring is attracting numbers.

"We're always competing against baseball and football," he said. "We had 55 boys eligible for spring sports, but a majority of them either wanted to hit the weight room for football or play baseball at Venice."

"If these guys stick with it, we could produce some state qualifiers in the spring," Steptoe said.

ville Area College. "The selection is a great honor," said Whitaker, now at Marshall School. "Every coach hopes he'll be selected at the end of his career. It fulfills all you have worked for."

Whitaker was there as the captain of Schmitt's first team at GCIS in 1951. He qualified for the state tournament twice. He began his college career at Arkansas State wrestling for Harold Nichols (who later coached national champions at Iowa State), but that was interrupted by four years service in the Air Force (1953-57). Whitaker then wrestled for Jim Wilkinson at SIUC.

He began teaching at Cahokia High School in 1960, and took over the Comanche wrestling program one year later, coaching them to an 8-5 record, with two state qualifiers and one who placed fourth. Whitaker then returned to Granite City in 1963 and was Schmitt's assistant from 1963-73, when he took the head coaching job at North High School.

He was the only wrestling coach in the 10-year existence of the Steelers. He coached 44 state qualifiers, including six placers. Kris Whelan was a state champion for him in 1977 — the most recent state champion from Granite City. Kris and Keith Whelan both went on to become college All-Americans at Missouri, while another of Whitaker's wrestlers, Bob Kirgan, became an All-American at Meramec. His last two teams at North were a combined 47-9.

When North closed, Whitaker became the coach at GCC for two years. He had three more college All-Americans there, including Randy Lupardus of Granite City. He then returned to GCIS in 1983 after Schmitt's retirement and took seven wrestlers to state in his final two seasons before handing over the reins to Mike Garland in 1987. His overall high school record as 217-34-4.

Whitaker served on the four-man executive committee of the National Wrestling Coaches Association for four years, the last year spent as vice president in charge of high school activities. He also served on a special committee for the NCAA clinic.

Whitaker became a lifetime member of the National Wrestling Coaches Association last year with the help of Marv Hess, the executive director of the NWCA. Hess is going into the National Hall of Fame this year. "I need to thank Bill Schmitt for my beginning in wrestling, the late George Nemeth, and also Mike Garland for their help as my assistant coaches," said Whitaker. "I thank the Illinois Wrestling Coaches and Officials Association for my selection. I was happy when the Granite City (Sports) Hall of Fame inducted me, but this is an even greater honor."

NOTES: Top wrestlers from Illinois meet the best from Missouri tonight at 7 p.m. at Granite City High School. The format will be a dual meet and is for seniors only. Warrior wrestlers scheduled to participate are 119-pounder Ryan King, 130-pounder Dan Hicks and 140-pounder Chris Hofstet. The Warriors were represented in all 13 weight classes on the all-Southwestern Conference team. First-teamers were 103-pounder Pat Scheffer (4-5 and fifth in the state), King (4-4-3), Hicks (3-1-1), 135-pounder Mark McKeehan (3-1-1-2), Hofstet (4-2-6-1), 145-pounder Jerry Heubuschman (3-8-10) and 189-pounder Jeff Heubuschman (3-1-14). In addition to Scheffer, King, Hicks, Hofstet and Jerry Heubuschman qualified for state. Second-teamers were 112-pounder T.J. Slay (3-2-1-1), 125-pounder Jason Moerlen (2-6-10), 160-pounder Scott Simon (2-7-18) and heavyweight Al Willard (3-1-1-2). Third-teamers were 152-pounder Tony Buchek (9-8) and 171-pounder Andy Richards (3-1-15).

Lincoln

Lewis seeing red after the 70-46 Jacksonville win. But Lincoln (19-7) won his ninth straight game Tuesday by making 10 of 12 free throws, although they didn't get to the line once until the final 3:09.

"We knew the free throws would eventually come," said point guard Jovon Hamburg, who led the Tigers with 22 points and eight assists. "We weren't nervous at all. They gave us a chance to score and we jumped on it."

"We're a hungry team right now. This team just keeps improving. We're playing real well together. I'm confident we can beat anybody right now."

"Our defensive game is real strong, and we score most of our points off of it," he said. "We're attacking the boards and blocking people out. We're limiting teams to one or two shots a trip. If we can continue playing like this, we can get out of here and get a shot at the state tournament."

Jacksonville all-star Scott Brennan, battling the flu, led the Crimson with a game-high 26 points, including four 3-pointers. Brennan kept Jacksonville (23-6) in contention before running out of gas in the fourth quarter.

•Keene

Bone called Keene's eight-point spree "a big sequence." "He went through a stretch there where he had a couple of turnovers and missed a shot or two," said Bone. "You could just see him say, 'OK, that's enough. I'm going to take charge.'"

"If I've ever had a criticism of Richard Keene, it's always been that I wanted him to be mentally tougher. He's always been a great player, but I always wanted to push him a little bit farther. He's doing that himself now."

Keene missed each of his 3-point attempts in the first quarter, which ended with the score tied 12-12. But Keene made the first of three second-quarter 3-pointers to break the deadlock and give Bone renewed hope.

"I'm like everybody else. I want him to make all of them," Bone said. "I've never told him not to shoot 'em, that's for sure. If he just gets good shots, gets his body squared up and goes straight up, he can shoot 'em all day long. If he misses 'em, we get beat."

Bone was speaking from experience. Keene scored just 10 points in host Granite City's 65-51 victory on Feb. 7, which was the Kahoks' most recent loss.

Keene was anxious to make amends for that disaster, which occurred in his first game without a brace he had been wearing on his still-healing left wrist, broken in December.

"After the game I had last time, I wanted to redeem myself," said Keene.

"He just hung around and we just didn't execute," said Warrior coach Bill Ohlendorf. "We didn't take care of the basketball and he benefited from our lack of poise and lack of patience."

"He's a good player. They got us spread out a little bit more than we were at our place. We had to come out and play them a little differently."

"At our place, we had the lead and we had control of it, and we ran our offense. This time we didn't and we had to extend to get him. He's much more effective when the other team does that."

Effective he was — with six rebounds, seven assists, seven steals and a blocked shot thrown in. While the Warriors get ready for baseball season, Keene continues his quest for an early appearance on the Assembly Hall floor where he will play his college ball.

•Game

made the difference."

Tim Reynolds scored only two points, but he followed Marshall around and forced the Warriors' three-point specialist into 5-of-15 shooting. Chris Reynolds (Tim's cousin) hurt the Warriors with 17 points and eight rebounds, many of them at the offensive end.

"We're bigger, but they're quicker going to the boards than we are," said Ohlendorf. "They got some big baskets from their other contributors."

Joe Muniz, who struggled during the regular season, contributed eight points and five steals to the Kahok cause.

While not saying in so many words that the Kahoks were out for revenge, Bone remembered the loss in Granite City last month.

"That had a big effect," he said. "Richard didn't have a good shooting night, but the biggest factor that night was our effort. We weren't ready and we didn't play hard. Granite City was better that night."

The Warriors trailed by only seven going into the fourth quarter, but Keene hit a three-pointer to make it 52-41 with 5:37 left, then hit another for a 59-45 lead. Brian Smith (10 points, 11 rebounds) fouled out with 1:53 left and Marshall (12 points) fouled out with 25 seconds left. Jeff Smith had 17 points and 10 rebounds.

"I don't think we were nervous," said Ohlendorf. "If you are, that's over with after only a few minutes. It just comes down to execution. They took advantage of our lack of poise and lack of patience."

Following in his father's footsteps.
